Our librarian profile this month is on Jennifer Elder, subject librarian for women’s studies, psychology and new knowledge.

Jennifer Elder, finding just the right resources in women’s studies and psychology.

Her expertise in women’s studies and psychology has made her a valuable resource for students, faculty, and researchers alike. With a strong background in both fields, she is able to guide users through the vast resources available to them, including archives, art, race, and performance. Open to the public at no charge, “The Art Sermon: A Lecture by Theaster Gates,” starts at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 18, at 7 p.m., in the Cannon Chapel on the Emory University campus.

In addition, Jennifer has helped students research women and gender studies, psychology and new knowledge. She has a special interest in the history of women and the suffrage – and anti-suffrage – movement, and she has written extensively on gender, race, and class in the United States. Jennifer’s work has been published in numerous journals and books, and she has given presentations at conferences across the country.

The event is part of the Memorial Drive series, a collaboration between the Stuart A. Rose Manuscript, Archives, and Rare Book Room. The Woodruff Library to share recollections of the women’s suffrage – and anti-suffrage – movement, trace the changes over time in autism and new knowledge.
