June 2014

Battle of Atlanta mobile tour launch event
June 18 at Cyclorama

Learn more about the exhibition and where to park (follow this link). Both events are open to the public at no charge.

Emory and Georgia Tech collaborate on Library Service Center

The Library Service Center project is nearly complete, and the center will open its doors to the public on Wednesday, Aug. 6, after the Emory University summer term concludes. The center will house a shared collection of business school graduates, the Goizueta Business Library, and library service areas for both libraries. The goal is to provide a single library home for Emory and Georgia Tech students, faculty, and staff.

Read the article about the Library Service Center.

Woodruff Library renovation projects and notes

With the major renovation of the Manuscript, Archives, and Rare Book Library (MARBL) related to the Civil War, the Library is also working on various renovation projects; here are updates on two.

Read more about the Woodruff Library renovations.

Library privileges for new Goizueta alumni

To celebrate the Goizueta Business Library’s opening, students who graduate from the Goizueta Business School and are in good standing will receive free access to the library. Library privileges include access to books, periodicals, and online databases. Students must register online to reserve their privileges.

Read the article about library privileges for Goizueta alumni.

Library exhibition on view throughout the summer

Two new exhibitions are on view in the library: The Worn Surface of Seamus Heaney’s Writing Desk, and The Joe Louis Boxing Exhibit.

Read more about the library exhibitions.

Emory Libraries in the news

Keep an eye on the Emory Libraries homepage for news about the library, and on Facebook and Twitter for headlines in Atlanta and around the world:

Keywords

We’re making headlines in Atlanta and around the world:

Poetry Took Wing

Kevin Young were members, featured in The New York Times.

Valley Happens

The Joe Louis exhibit opening in the Atlanta Cyclorama & Civil War Museum.

Happens

The worn surface of Heaney’s writing desk is part of the exhibition drawn from the poet’s collection in MARBL. Image courtesy Atlanta Cyclorama.

Another event, planned for July 17 at Emory’s Atlanta Cyclorama & Civil War Museum.

Please join us for these events, where you can meet the team who created the tour, including a Battle of Atlanta scholar who is a physician at the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Both events are open to the public at no charge.

Read more about the Battle of Atlanta mobile tour launch event.

Woodruff Library renovation projects and notes

As part of its congratulations to Emory’s 2014 Business Library graduates, the Goizueta Business Library, begins its summer and summer break by providing an optimal space for present and future library growth essential to both Emory and Georgia Institute of Technology.

Find more articles and clips on our media coverage page

Learn more about the latest news, learn about our library services, both mobile device users and collaborative projects.

Get updates sent to your phone or email, or from readings to receptions, don’t miss a single event.

Read more about the latest news, learn about our library services, both mobile device users and collaboration projects.

Have you heard about the Woodruff Library renovations?

Read more about the Woodruff Library renovations.

Library privileges for new Goizueta alumni

We’re making headlines in Atlanta and around the world:

Read more about the library exhibitions.

Read more about what’s coming up here.

Read more about our library services, both mobile device users and collaboration projects.

Read more about our library services, both mobile device users and collaboration projects.